WORDS OF PRAISE.

Creston Clark at Morton's Tomorrow Night.

The following is clipped from the Galveston (Texas) News of a recent date:

No prettier play than "The Last of His Race" has come to Galveston in a long while. Neither has a more capable company been seen here than the one presenting this beautiful play last night. Creston Clark, who took the leading role, has certainly solidified himself with those theatre-goers who saw his magnificent performance of last night. In a word his acting was of that superb character that leaves nothing to be desired.

BURGLARS SHOT AT.

Servant Girl at Dr. Yeiser's Suburban Home

Is the Heroine of an Attempted Burglary Last Night.

There was an exciting occurrence in Afton Heights, three miles from the city, at the pretty residence of ex-Mayor D. A. Yeiser, last night.
Between 8 and 9 o'clock, while Dr.
Yeiser was still in the city, and there was no one but the ladies at home, two men were observed prowling about the premises. They soon became very bold, and attempted to open every door they could reach, but found them all locked.

The ladies were badly frightened, and finally, just a few moments before Dr. Yeiser arrived, the servant girl, Annie White, fired two shots from the window to frighten the marauders away, which had the desired effect.

They were no doubt bent on robbery. Several robberies have been committed in that section within the past few months, one man having his leg broken.

SITUATION IN OHIO.

Both Sides are Claiming Victory.
Exciting Times Expected Tomorrow When Balloting Begins.

Bushnell Inaugurated, and Al-Passed On Quietly. Immense Crowds Attend
Mass Meeting.

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—The senatorial situation has not changed today. The workers for Senator Hanna say they now have enough votes. The Kurtz workers say they can spare another vote or two and still defeat Hanna.

Hanna's friends charge that attempts at bribery have been made.
Real hot times are expected tomorrow when the first ballot is taken.
As the situation now is, both sides are confident.

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—All day long train loads of people have been pouring into this city to attend the mass meeting of the Republicans and also to attend the inauguration ceremonies.

The inauguration ceremonies began at exactly noon, and were attended by an enormous crowd in spite of the mass meeting, which is to be held at 3 p. m.

The parade was not feasible for the presence of but few Republican clubs. The Stadium Club, of Cincinnati was the most prominent club in the parade. Nearly all the clubs that had refused to march are here to attend the mass meeting.

There was no trouble of any kind at the inauguration ceremonies.

MAY HAVE TO PAY GUARDS.

Bill to Transfer This Turnpike Expense From People to Owners.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—There will be a bill passed by the legislature, said a prominent member of the house yesterday, "which will repeal the Martin law. The corporations controlling the turnpikes should be made pay for the guards to protect their property, and not the people, who are not interested in the road."

BURKE'S PRINTED PLEDGE.

His Card Before Election Bound To Hanna.

Cleveland, Jan. 10.—Senator Burke has been declaring that he never pledged himself to vote for Senator Hanna. The Leader today published a facsimile of one of the cards Burke circulated at the primaries. It reads as follows: "No. 2 on the list of Mr. A. Hanna for United States Senator, Vermon H. Burke, Candidate for Republican primaries, Tuesday, June 17, 4 to 5 p. m."

When Burke was asked what he had to say about it, he refused to be interviewed.

PREPARING A GERRYMANDER.

Democratic Steering Committee
Get to Work in Frankfort.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 10.—The democratic steering committee, which will formulate all partisan legislation to go through this session, will get to work early this week.
The only congressional district in which a gerrymander has been decided on up to date is the Eighth, in which Jackson county, which has 1,501 majority, is to be added to the Eleventh. The prospects are that the gerrymandering beyond this will not amount to anything.

HAZEN IS ON THE TRAIL.

Secret Service Chief Ordered to Hunt the $100 Bill Counterfeit Maker.

WARRANT MADE NO CONFESSION

San Francisco, Jan. 9.—Despite reports to the contrary, Durrant made no confession. One of the prison guards overheard a conversation between the prisoner and Rev.
Father Lagan, the priest who received him into the Catholic church, and in this Durrant took pains to strongly assert his innocence. He also wrote a farewell letter to his chief counsel, Deuprey, in which he said: "Remember, there are no sensations, confessions or stories. If such appear as having come from me or guards, I deny them, because I have seen no one."

There is much curiosity as to the burial of Durrant's body, as most of the cemeteries have refused it. The corpses are now at the home of his parents. It is thought that the burial will be made to avoid the rush of morbid curiosity seekers who surround the Durrant house and watch for the appearance of any of the inmates.

One of the most ghastly incidents of the execution was the lunch which the parents of Durrant ate by the side of his coffin. When the coffin was brought from the execution room and opened a shocking sight was disclosed. The face was almost black, the eyes half protruding and lids half open. The jaws were firmly set, but the features distorted. The parents kissed the lips of the dead. Mrs.
Durrant wept. Then they took seats by the side of the coffin. Thus they had remained for quite a while, when a convict approached and asked Mrs.
Durrant if she would like a cup of tea. "Thank you, I would," was the reply. Instead of tea, a tray loaded with an abundance of prison dinner fare was sent to the coffin side. Here a table was spread with in three feet of the corpse. The parents seated themselves and ate. After the remains of the feast had been taken away they sat conversing until the body was borne from the prison.

EXPECTING TROUBLE.

Tollgate Guards in Boyle County
On the Lookout.

Lancaster, Ky., Jan. 10.—Guards have been placed at all the tollgates in this county. Wholesale raids are expected any night.

SHOT HIS BABY BROTHER.

A Tragedy Follows a Boy's Play With His Father's Rifle.

Princeton, Ind., Jan. 10.—John Maxwell, a farmer living north of this city, laid a loaded rifle on a bed Saturday night, and during his absence his 9-year-old son began playing with it. He pointed the rifle at his 4-year-old brother and pulled the trigger. The ball entered the baby's head, creating the wound that will prove fatal.

THE MASS MEETING

Was Called to Order This Afternoon at 3 O'clock.

Columbus, O., Jan. 10.—Judge Nash called the mass meeting to order in the Auditorium at 3 p. m. sharp, and delivered a short speech setting forth the reasons for asking the Republicans of Ohio to meet in mass convention and express themselves as to the issues involved in the Senatorial contest. He then introduced Congressman Walter L. Weaver, of Springfield, as chairman of the convention, and announced that John R.
Malloy and A. C. Caine would act as secretaries. The speeches were limited to five minutes, and it was expected that the meeting would appoint a committee on resolutions.

TOOK POISON

In the Presence of Her Sweetheart
—A Sad Death.

Glasgow, Ky., Jan. 10.—At Temple Hill, in this county, Miss Mattie Buckley committed suicide last night in the presence of her sweetheart.
She took strychnine, and died in a short time in terrible agony. The young people had quarrelled. The young lady was very popular with all who knew her.

DESTROYS MORGANFIELD'S CITY AND A STORE. PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH $30,000.

Marshall H. B. Sellers Killed in Debris. Occurred Yesterday at 4 O'clock in the Afternoon.

Morganfield, Ky., Jan. 10.—A disastrous cyclone struck Morganfield yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, carrying destruction in its wake.
One life was lost, the victim being City Marshal H. B. Sellers, one of the best and most popular citizens of Morganfield and a most efficient officer.

The funnel-shaped cloud came upon the city without warning and did not linger more than thirty seconds. Small clouds had been overhanging the city all day, but there was no indication of a severe storm.
In fact, most of the clouds had disappeared when the cyclone struck.
People within a square of where it blew down a large brick building had no idea of its proximity, and in some parts of the city there was not enough wind to attract attention.

The cyclone traveled in a northeasterly direction and was not more than fifty feet wide. It came with a mighty roar and bounding motion.
It seems that it struck the ground only in one place, and that right in the heart of the city. It first struck the standpipe, twisting it into the shape of an egg. It next struck the Methodist church, doing some damage, and then swooped down in all its fury on H. S. Mart & Bros.' large brick store. This store was the largest in the city and was razed to the ground. The roof was blown across the street and driven into Walrand's jewelry store.
Mart & Bros.' store was blown over on the city hall, crushing that building to the ground.

Marshall Sellers had just gone into the police judge's office to write a letter. He was penned in and buried beneath the debris. As soon as the cyclone passed men went to work and soon recovered the body. His death is the most deplorable feature of the storm. He was a prominent Mason and carried $2,000 insurance.
The damage done is estimated to be about $30,000.

TO GET TO KLONDIKE.

By Geographer Gannett of the United States Geological Society.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.
The best plan is to wait until the Yukon opens in the spring and go by that route up the Yukon to the mouth of the Klondike river.

Thus one can be set down at Dawson with hardly a step to walk and without encountering any of the perils incidental to the journey overland.

The quickest, though not the easiest route, is to go by one of the passes over the mountains from Dyea or Skagway. Chilkoot Pass seems to be the favorite with those who have tried the various routes. The distance that way to Lake Lindeman is short, and from thence to Dawson the trip is accomplished in boats. The mountains to be crossed are only about 4,000 feet high—no great altitude, indeed—but the difficulty lies in the immense quantities of snow encountered and in the exceeding badness of the trail.

Something has been said lately about a practical route to be followed by leaving the Canadian Pacific Railroad at some point west of Rocky Mountains and striking northwest in the direction of Lake Lindeman. To follow this path would require a very long journey overland, with no help from boats worth mentioning. I am not inclined to think favorably of it.

The so-called Copper River route, of which there has been much discussion recently, is condemned by all who know it.

Copper River itself is very rapid and the overland journey incidental to that route is long and difficult.
If one wishes to reach the Klondike quickly the Chilkoot route is the best. It is by no means the long journey by sea and the Yukon is easiest.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.

the following delegates to the South and West Commerce Congress at Tampa, Fla., from February 8th to the 11th as follows: Ex-Mayor D. A. Yeiser, Col. Ed P. Noble, Dr. J. G. Brooks, Trustees Andy Bauer and Capt. Joe Johnson.

This is a list of as good men as it would be possible to find in Paducah.
How many will attend the congress is unknown at present.

AN AGED CITIZEN.

Mr. John Nally Leaves Paducah
After a Fifty Years Residence.

John Nally, a well known and worthy Irishman, who had made Paducah his home since 1846, left this morning for Louisville to enter the hospital for the aged and infirm at Louisville, and spend the remainder of his days. For years and years he drove a dray in Paducah, and built up a reputation for industry and honesty. He has been in feeble health for some time.

He came to this country years ago, and landed at New Orleans. He had about $900 in cash with him, and it has long been told on him as a joke that the first thing he did when he stepped ashore was to walk up to a stranger and tell him he had $900 and wanted a good place to keep it.
The stranger kindly offered to take charge of it, saying that he was sent to the steamer for that purpose, and it is likely that the man, if living, is still keeping it for him.

Mr. Nally lived in Madison, Ind., and came here from there.
